A leader to unite for the moment and build for the future

A Message from Dr. Rudy Liddell

I believe that the strength of organized dentistry lies in the tripartite system. That is why I have dedicated more than 25 years serving in leadership at various levels — my local component, my state and now at the national level. It has been an honor to work alongside others who sincerely care about our profession. What continues to amaze me is that there are so many career paths available to new graduates: public health, teaching, specialty training, working in a corporate setting or practicing in a solo or small group practice. The common thread is that we are bound by the fact that we are

There must be a place in the American Dental Association for every dentist, no matter what career path and no matter what career stage.

dentists. There must be a place in the American Dental Association for every dentist, no matter what career path and no matter what career stage. I believe that the American Dental Association is the stitching that bonds us together and keeps our profession strong. My hope is that I can be a national leader who unites for the moment and builds for the future. One of the responsibilities that I take very seriously is identifying leadership potential in younger dentists. The dedication that the new generation brings to our profession confirms my faith that the association will be in good hands for years to come. For dentistry to truly thrive, we must all contribute our best, whether it be experience or a fresh perspective; donations of time or financial donations; engaging elected officials or recruiting colleagues. I believe that under my leadership the diversity of dentistry can be one of its greatest assets.
