

ISO/TC 106 Dental Standards Conference: Sponsorship Opportunities

In 2024, the American Dental Association, on behalf of the American National Standards Institute, will host the annual International Organization for Standardization Technical Committee 106 for Dentistry (ISO/TC 106) conference to be held October 12-16, 2024, in New Orleans.

Over the five days, more than 300 international attendees comprised of dental product manufacturers, dentists, researchers, educators, government/regulatory agencies, and professional dental associations from over 30 member countries attend this important yearly conference. Over 50 meetings will be held on the development of international standards for dental products used by the dental profession, consumers, and industry. Dental standards on the following topics will be discussed:

- Filling, Restorative and Prosthodontic Materials
- Dental Instruments, Equipment, and Implants
- Oral Hygiene Products
- CAD/CAM
- Artificial Intelligence
- 3D-Printing/Additive Manufacturing

Why Sponsor

This important conference and its work are critical to the dental trade, both in the U.S. and global markets. The impact of ISO standards is far reaching, and participation is vital to ensure the needs of the U.S. marketplace and U.S. manufacturers are heard. ISO standards are often adopted into regulation by countries to evaluate products for approval to go to market and, in the U.S., the FDA uses ISO standards for this purpose.

Sponsoring the ISO/TC 106 conference helps position your company as a leader on the global stage, a standard-bearer for high quality, and provides the much-needed financial support for the U.S. to fulfill its obligations as the host country.
